About the Workshop and Training Program

As we all know, digitization is the process of converting materials from hard copies to electronic versions. The primary goals of digitalization are to improve access to and preserve library materials. The majority of libraries are digitizing materials that are unlikely to be lost in the future, such as old manuscripts, research projects, photo images, analogue maps, non-live musical recordings, government official gazettes, and a wide range of other historical records. Converting this precise old material into high-quality digital unpaged material and making it available electronically will reduce wear and tear on fragile items.

In the workshop various current trends about digitization will be discussed and training on Citation technique will be discussed.

Objective of Workshop & Trainings

• Studying advanced search and retrieval techniques.
• Having access to the most important data sources.
• Overview of Plagiarism and Citation Tools
• Confirm that the users are aware of the DL Resources.
• Provide appropriate training and skills to ensure that researchers and scholars can benefit from the digital library.
